

Dear Kindergarten Families,

We hope this letter finds you healthy and happy and that you are enjoying the extra time you get to spend with your children. The five of us have been spending time with our own families, playing with kitties, sewing, talking with our college-aged kids who are home again, and watching too much BRAVO tv. But most of all, we are missing our students. We have been exploring ways we can provide activities for your kindergartener to do at home. We all agree the most important thing your child should be doing is READING. There are many free resources you can access for reading materials if you have the ability to get onto the internet. For example:

www.stories.audible.com

www.willbooks.com

www.storylineonline.net

(just to name a few.) There are many more out there so just ask us if you need any more resources for reading! In addition to reading, we have also provided a few more activities for your child to do this week in each of the subject areas. We hope you find these to be helpful as we all try to find a new normal for the time being. Please say "hi" to your children from us and tell them we miss them! Fingers crossed we will be back at school soon!

From, The Kindergarten Teachers + 1

Ann Becker, Emily Vay, Patrice Perrault, Stacy Klose, and Danielle McGregor